

CONTRIBUTORS

Dr. Dripta Piplai (Mondal) is presently Assistant Professor in the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, IIT Kharagpur. She has a Ph.D (2015) in Linguistics from University of Delhi. Her thesis was on language conflict and variation among Rajbanshi school children. Her M.Phil (2008), also from University of Delhi, was on overall linguistic problems of the Rajbanshi children in classroom. She was Sarai-CSDS Fellow (2006), CRY National Child Rights Research Fellow (2007), Wipro Applying Thought in Schools Fellow (2014-15), and Central Institute of Indian Languages Fellow (2015-16).

Dr. Poulami Aich Mukherjee is Director, Research Centre in History and Assistant Professor at the PG Department of History, Assumption College Autonomous, Changanachery, affiliated to Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam, Kerala. Her areas of interests are Indo-Portuguese Studies, Maritime Interactions, Women's History & Gender Studies. She has authored the following books: History, Legacy and Diplomacy: India & Portugal in the Age of Global Politics (Tellicherry: IRISH, 2015) and Imperial Hegemony & Spice-Rich Kerala (Kolkata: Monfakira, 2016).

Dr. Subir Dey received his doctorate from Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi in 2015 for his thesis "Settlement of East Bengali Farmers and Consequent Histories of Assam, 1900-1951". His doctoral research focus has been on the history of agriculture, demography and citizenship in late colonial Assam in India. Subsequently, he was employed as a co-investigator in a research project "Climate Change, Uncertainty and Social Transformation" that was in collaboration with the Institute of Development Studies, UK, University of Sussex and Norwegian University of Life Sciences funded by the Norwegian Research Council in September 2015. He has taught colonial histories of Southeast Asia and twentieth century world histories as an Assistant Professor (ad hoc) at Indraprastha College for Women in University of Delhi, India.

Dr. K. P. Girija is a Fellow at Indian Institute of Advanced Study, Shimla, India. She received her doctorate from the Centre for the Study of Culture and Society, Manipal University in 2016. Her research interests include health, history of medicine, traditional knowledge systems, politics and history of knowledge, traditional health practices, indigenous and modern perspectives on education and body in knowledge production. Her recent research projects include the study of life narratives of Ayurveda practitioners and the idea of psychiatry in Ayurveda.

Prachi Vaidya Dublay is an accomplished vocalist, researcher, and scholar of Indian music. With 20 years of experience as a performer and broadcaster, Prachi has been performing all over India and abroad and has many CDs to her credit. She has received several prestigious fellowships and awards like the Tata Fellowship in Folklore, Ministry of Culture Fellowship of the Government of India, Sir CV Raman Award, Kaleshwari Sanmaan, IBN-Lokmat Prerana Puraskar, etc. Prachi has taught Music as a guest faculty at the University of Pune and Flame University, Pune. For several years now, she has been an independent traveling musician, collecting, interpreting, singing, teaching and writing on the Adivasi Music of India. She was a Fellow at IAS, where she worked on the project: "Towards A Theoretical Framework of Adivasi Music".

Dr. Sujit Kumar is Assistant Professor in Political Science in the Post-graduate and Research Centre of St. Joseph's College and is the coordinator for M.A. programme. He specializes in Political Thought and Theory, Political Economy and Political Sociology and has done doctoral research on land acquisition in Scheduled areas of Jharkhand. He has contributed several research papers in journals, magazines and edited books. Some of the published works are: "Adivasis and the State Politics in Jharkhand" (Studies in Indian Politics, 6(1): 103-16, 2018); "Revisiting Anti-dispossession Resistance Movements" (Seminar, 682: 43-47, 2016); "Changing Equations of Jharkhand Adivasi Politics" (Economic and Political Weekly, 50(23): 15-16, 2015).

Prof. Narayani Gupta studied history at Delhi University and Oxford, and taught at Indraprastha College and Jamia Millia Islamia. Her research is limited to modern urban history, and her extra-mural interests extend to appreciating attempts at conservation and to discussing how a sense of wonder in architecture can be stimulated in children.

Dr. Ishmeet Kaur Chaudhry is Assistant Professor of English at the Centre for English Studies, Central University of Gujarat, Gandhinagar. Her interests include Literatures of/from the Margins; Women and Violence; and Sikh Studies. She is also a creative writer. She was nominated as an “Inspired Teacher” for President of India’s in-residence programme at Rashrapati Bhawan (June 2015). She has also been an IUC-Associate at IIAS, Shimla.